Working in partnership with ASSA security products

The importance of effective security

Peace of mind is vital when implementing security measures, as a building's users need to feel safe and secure. Too many compromises here can endanger both lives and property, make the premises vulnerable to expensive damage from vandalism and arson and raise insurance premiums for residents. Installing a high quality security system can more than pay for itself over its lifetime.

ASSA products have been relied upon in the most demanding security applications including public housing, healthcare and education for over 65 years.

Potential threats to security

Carelessness

If a locking system is too difficult to use, residents might neglect their security precautions.

Sophisticated security doesn't need to be complicated.

Physical force

Intruders can gain access using brute force or burglary tools including drills, crowbars and saws.

Tough, high quality security products are designed to resist such threats.

Lockpicking

A professional thief can get past a typical door lock in a matter of seconds.

Modern locks can include security features that make picking and 'bumping' all but impossible.

Compromised key security

If someone 'borrows' a key and gets an illicit copy made, they can walk straight in at any time they like.

By setting up a controlled key registration system you can ensure security without imposing undue restrictions on your users.

Let us help you

Supply and fit service

WT Lynn Ltd are specialist suppliers of the ASSA range of high security door hardware. Our trained staff can assemble cylinders and cut keys for you in-house, ensuring that your security system is tailored to your requirements. We offer a full supply and fit service, ensuring that everything is taken care of.

Patented cylinder and key security

ASSA is established as the first choice for high security, robust and sophisticated key systems. Constant innovation ensures that products remain at the cutting edge, now with the addition of electronic encryption and monitoring to supplement the high physical security of traditional mechanical keys.

Door controls

ASSA products are used to close doors all over the world and meet all the applicable international standards. ASSA door controls facilitate many possibilities – not only controlled door closing but also convenience, comfort, security and safety.

Modular locking

The ASSA Modular lock range comprises robust locks for high usage areas, engineered for smooth performance over many years. The innovative modular design offers a vast range of functions, from standard latch locks to high security deadbolt locks, split follower locks and emergency escape locks.

Panic exit devices

ASSA offer both panic and emergency exit devices that meet all required standards. Panic hardware offers rapid escape in an emergency situation. Emergency exit devices offer single-action escape and are designed for applications such as offices where occupants will be familiar with the operation of the device.
